Clarification regarding Unique Laboratory Report (ULR) Number

Accredited Testing laboratory, Calibration laboratory & Reference Material Producers may note the clarification on use of ULR No.

As you are aware, Government electronic Marketplace (GeM) accepts test reports issued by NABL accredited laboratories along with the products which are uploaded on the GeM portal.

To authenticate the test reports, GeM has sought the co-operation of NABL in getting the data on reports mapped with the claim of the sellers. To facilitate such mapping, a ULR number has to be mentioned on all reports issued by the CABs. This number will be in addition to the report/certificate/RM document number of the CAB and will have to be mentioned in all reports/certificates/RM documents issued within accredited scope only.

The formats for the ULR number to be used are mentioned below

a) Accredited CABs for which the accreditation certificate No. is in the format NABLFMMYYSCXXXXX

National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories
(A constituent board of Quality Council of India)

In case amendment is made to any report with proper identification, the same ULR number may be given. However, it is the prerogative of the laboratory.

This system is not mandatory to be used on test reports issued by in-house laboratories like bulk petroleum product manufacturer's laboratories, test reports of non-commodities like air, waste water and similar environmental parameters, Soil & rock, Cell Culture and results related to veterinary testing, dope testing & forensic testing.

This system is not to be used in reports containing parameters outside the scope of NABL accreditation.

The transition period of 6 months is given to the CABs for fully implementing the new format of the accreditation certificate number (after issued by NABL) & corresponding ULR number as mentioned in Point 'a' above.
